With the Fun Makers

Maud: "You seem to like Jack's attentions. Why don't you marry him?"

Marie: "Because I like his attentions."

Keep your eye on the girl who always allows her mother to do the housework while she idles about town. Soon you will see her with a sporty dude for her best fellow, and she wears the extreme in fashionable clothes; then she gets married and you can safely predict that her lot in life will be weeping, wailing and wash tubs. Houston (Mo.) Herald.

Mistress: "Of course, I don't wish to put any obstacles in the way of your getting married, but I wish it were possible to postpone it until I get another maid."

Mary Ann: "Well, mum, I hardly think I know 'im well enough to ask 'im to put it off."

Tid-Bits.

Creditor: "You couldn't go around in your fine automobile if you paid your debts."

Debtor: "That so? I'm glad you look at it in the same light that I do." Boston Transcript.

George, who lives in London, happened to meet the vicar of his native parish the other day and eagerly asked after some of his old acquaintances.

"And old Mr. Jones?" he asked. "Have you seen him lately?"

The vicar shook his head. "I shall never see him again," he answered, slowly. "Mr. Jones has gone to heaven." Tid-Bits.

He: "What do you think about introducing this mediation?"

She: "Is that the newest step?" Baltimore American.

The Seeress: "You will soon marry a man with loads of money who will give you a princely allowance. Two dollars, please."

The Customer: "I'll pay you out of the allowance. Good-by." Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Don't you dislike a man who assumes to know more than his official associates?" asked one statesman.

"Yes," replied the other. "Particularly if he makes good." Washington Star.

In WASHINGTON: "Next you notice the perpetual smell of orange blossoms," said the man on the rubberneck wagon.

Everybody sniffed.

"We are now approaching the White House," Kansas City Journal.

"Most of us dream in childhood about having a gold crown some day."

"Well, we eventually reach the dentist." Kansas City Journal.

Mrs. Goodwin: "I wish to select a present for my husband, and I can't find anything suitable. He doesn't smoke or drink, or go out nights or play cards."

Salesperson: "Is he fond of fancy work?"

Pat was servant of a farmer, and in his charge was a donkey, which was kept to amuse his employer's children. The donkey was following the farmer's wife round the yard one day, and the farmer, turning to Pat, said:

"I think that donkey is taking a liking to my wife."

"Och," said Pat, shure, and it is not the first donkey that's took a liking to her, sir."

A carpenter sent to make some repairs in a private house entered the apartment of the lady of the house with his apprentice and began to work.

"Mary," the lady said to her maid, see that my jewel-case is locked up at once!"

The carpenter understood. He removed his watch and chain from his vest in a significant manner and handed them to his apprentice.

"John," said he, "take these right back to the shop. It seems that this house is 't safe." Harper's.
